More Acreage Added To City Park System

By PAM TROBOY

Several major additions to the park system were approved by the City Council Monday night.

Council members purchased 41.6 acres in the Hunters Glen V addition for $346,611.30 plus interest. The council also contracted to pay $364,388.72 in development costs.

Pioneer Park, which is bordered by Roundrock Trail on the west and the 250-foot TP&L easement on the south, will be a major community park.

Tentatively planned for the area are a 50-meter outdoor swimming pool, hike and bike trails connected by Chisholm Trail with other parks, a large pavilion area similar to Harrington Park, restrooms, athletic fields, playgrounds, picnic spots and parking.

The council also bought 5.914 acres to serve as a portion of Chisholm Trail, a linkage park. The parcel, which is located at Custer Road and Country Place Drive, cost $54,242.34 and will be developed with the aid of a grant from the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation.

A $29,989 contract for improvements to the Parks and Recreation Building was also approved. Accent Builders Inc. won the contract which is $289 over budget.

In other action, the council split on the development of 150.3 acres in southwest Plano. Bob Collins and Jack Harvard protested the inclusion of apartments in a predominantly industrial area.

Jackson Fulgham told the council that the 17.6 acres of MF-3 apartments were shown in an area north of the railroad tracks and south of the proposed Dallas North Parkway for economic and planning reasons.

He said the apartment zoning would give his company an earlier economic return than the light industrial property as well as serving as a buffer for lower density residential housing. Fulgham also noted that many industrial prospects are interested in property with multi-family housing nearby.

Three members of the council approved the apartments along with 63.2 acres of light industrial, 8.3 acres of 2F-2 duplex and 61.3 acres of SF-2 residences.

Fulgham had requested SF-3 zoning which requires a minimum lot size of 7,500 square feet. The SF-2 classification calls for 9,000 square feet. Surrounding property which is now located in Dallas is zoned for 10,000-square foot minimum lots.

The property is located on the south side of White Rock Road (future Dallas North Parkway) and about one-half mile east of Preston Road.

In the only other public hearing Monday, council members changed duplex zoning on 8.1 acres to allow Henry Lane to sell both portions of the lots.

The property which is on the northeast corner of Townbluff Drive and Parker Road, is currently zoned 2F-2. The new classification is 2F-3.

The council also approved a new industrial cost recovery rate, the plans and specifications of the Country Place water main and a mutual agreement with Dallas on a common boundary (the railroad tracks) west of Preston Road.

Council members also referred a request from the Ministerial Alliance that the city require only one parking space for every four seats in the sanctuary to the Planning and Zoning Commission.

Also, the landscaping plan for Collin County Office Park II was reviewed, a $12,311.54 payment was authorized for street participation in Briarmead and official ballots were cast for trustees to serve on the Texas Municipal League Workmen's Compensation Joint Insurance Fund Board.

Several planning cases were approved. Among these were the final plat of Town West II, the replat of a portion of Kimberlea II, a final plat of Los Rios IV, the site plan and replat of Adams Professional Arts Center and the site plan and final plat of R.C. Clark High School.

Several council members expressed concern that an auditorium, which was a part of the original site plan of the Multi-Purpose Complex, is no longer shown.

Tax refunds were approved for Baird Properties Inc. in the amount of $197 and to Paul Anderhub in the amount of $5.

County Court OK's Complex Revisions

Another $5,388 has been added to the new Collin County courthouse-jail contract.

Commissioners approved the fifteenth change order on the complex at their Monday morning meeting. The bulk of the additional dollars—$2,952—went to add 10 intercom stations in the jail as stipulated by a recent edict of the Texas Commission on Jail Standards.

The remaining money in the change order will be used for additional reinforced steel in the buildings, according to Jarvis Putty Jarvis representative Rich Morgan.

The architect also told the Commissioners Court that the revised completion date for the new $7.5 million facility remains at June 1978.

In other action, the court approved the November financial statement and accounts payable for Collin Memorial Hospital.

Hospital administrator Pete Huey told commissioners that November was the busiest month at Collin Memorial since March of last year and added that patient days were up more than 10 percent from the previous month.

Terms of office for members of the Collin County Child Welfare Board were revised to expire Dec. 31, 1978 and Darr Equipment Co. was awarded a contract for $25,500 to provide a used track-type loader for Precinct 3.

Tax refunds were approved for Baird Properties Inc. in the amount of $197 and to Paul Anderhub in the amount of $5.

The Civil Service Commission has agreed with a petitioning fireman that the existing pay plan for police and fire personnel should be revised.

The commission Monday recommended that the City Council reward longevity on the anniversary date of each individual firefighter and police officer.

Currently, fire and police employees under civil service are paid a base salary which increases every six months as recognition of seniority and tenure.

The ordinance provides, however, that in order to advance from one six-month service plateau to the next, an employee must have completed six months prior to two dates in the year—Sept. 26, 1977, or March 27, 1978.

John Michael Pearson, who has been a firefighter since May 30, 1976, protested that this system is inequitable since each person is treated differently according to his hiring or promotion date.

He explained that although he completed his first six months service on Nov. 30, 1976, he was forced to wait until March 28, 1977, to receive his increase, a loss of $120.

Pearson also noted that under the present system he would lose $312 if he were forced to wait until March to receive a six-month increase which, he claimed, should have been due on Nov. 9 since he was promoted to driver on May 9.

Pearson testified that it is possible for a man with 11 and three-fourths months service and another with six months service to receive their longevity pay at the same time. He said this system is "not tenure or longevity pay."

City Attorney Bill Roberts pointed out that each person is treated equally under the system as the system is defined "six months plus whatever number it takes to reach two dates in the year."

He warned that changing the ordinance might cause possible budgetary problems. Roberts said it would be "impossible to guess the tenure of those placed in positions" which are not yet open during budget sessions.

He said the city would "have to throw in a whole bunch of dollars without knowing if they would be used."

Pearson pointed out that the fire

One More Time

By official proclamation from Mayor Norman Whitsitt, it's Wildcat Week once again in Plano. With the support of the "Wildcat Moms" and virtually the entire city, the 'Cats hope to become the first football team in the state to win AA, AAA and AAAA championships when Plano faces Port Neches-Groves at 2:30 p.m. Saturday at Texas Stadium.

and police departments are the only two sections in the city which receive raises on only two dates. He suggested that such a system is "retribution" and imposed to "encourage us to give up civil service."

Although noting that the commission has no power to force the council to amend its ordinance, Chairman Byron Schaff said the commission believes that the present ordinance does not allow for uniformity and consistency.

The commission recommended that the council award the longevity pay automatically as each firefighter or police officer attains his six months step.

To do otherwise, stated the commission, is to "unreasonably discriminate against some."

Pearson had also asked for back pay, but Schaff said that matter is inappropriate unless the present ordinance is amended.

If the council concurs in the change, the commission recommended that Pearson take up the matter with that body. If an agreement cannot be reached, the case can be appealed to the commission at a later date.—PAM TROBOY

Fans Go Wild Over the 'Cats

Planoites Prove Loyalty in Lubbock

(Editor's Note: Daily Star-Courier reporter Terri Anderson accompanied a group of Wildcat fans to Lubbock Saturday aboard a Southwest Airlines charter flight. The following article represents her observations of the football team's supporters).

This may come as a shock to Coach Tommy Kimbrough and the Plano Wildcats, but the statebound football team may not be the most tenacious and determined group of people in Plano today—they've got close competition...with their own fans.

Wildcat fans are a varied bunch. The youngest on the first charter flight out of Dallas Saturday was about six. The oldest...well, we won't mention any ages, but one devout game-goer has only missed handfuls of football games in more than 25 years.

Some of the most vocal fans around are a group of otherwise average-looking ladies boasting tee-shirts reading "Wildcat Moms." They spent most of the flight time leading cheers of "We're number one!" and were joined by a couple of equally-vocal Plano Senior High teachers wrapped in "PSHS Prof" shirts.

The rest of the football fanatics included such personages as lifetime Planoite and Collin County Judge Nathan E. White Jr., former Wildcat footballers from the 1973 graduating class Vic Brooks and Mark Chaddick, doctors, lawyers, moms and dads, students, and primarily, just plain ol' folks who happen to love Plano football.

Not one could be said to be more loyal than the other. But perhaps the most determined of the crew was Betty Haynes, mother of flanker Perry Haynes.

Just before take-off, Mrs. Haynes came smiling up to the airport lounge—sitting in a wheelchair by her husband.

"You don't want to talk to me. I'm not supposed to be here," Mrs. Haynes grinned. "I injured by back last week and the doctor had to put me in bed for five days. I said, 'Doctor, are you aware that Plano's playing a football game this Saturday? What will I tell my son?'

"Then the doctor said, 'If your son is who I think he is, he'll understand,'" she continued. "I said, 'That may be true, but I would be in more muscle spasms if I were laying at home than if I were not at that game!'

"In spite of her protests, Mrs. Haynes still received strict orders from the doctor to stay at home. When she discovered the doctor was planning to fly to Lubbock too, she checked on what flight he was taking and booked herself on the one leaving just before him.

"I figure when he sees me out in Lubbock, he can't do anything about it," she reasoned.

Further exemplifying the loyalty of Plano Wildcat fans is Everett Ritchey, who graduated two sons from PHS in 1962 and 1966 and has missed only two football games in the past 25 years.

"I've missed only two games to my recollection," Ritchey said. "One when Dr. Eller wouldn't let me go because I had the flu and one when my wife died in 1971."

A charter member of the Plano Quarterback Club, Ritchey cites the growth of the team from AA to AAAA as the biggest change he's seen in Plano football over the past 25 years.

"I look at them as a growing team and a great team," said Ritchey. "The foundation was laid back a long time ago with men like E.A. Sigler, T.H. Bill Williams, Tom Gray, John Clark, and the current coach, Tom Kimbrough."

Why does a man who no longer has children in the Plano school district still brave cold weather and long distances to see the Wildcats play?

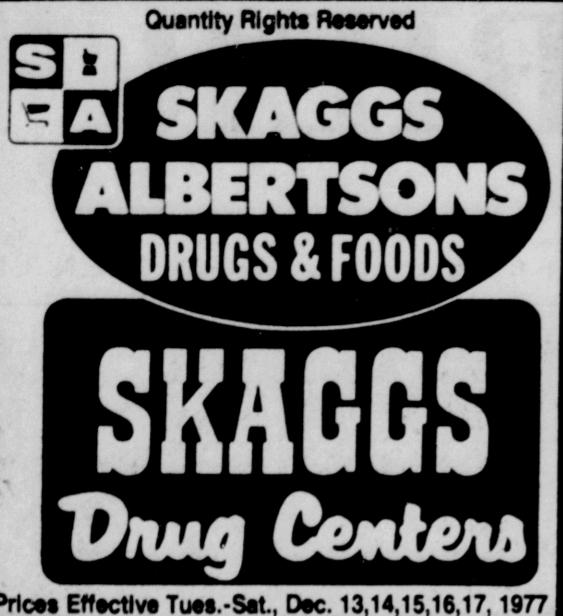

"The things I love most in life are young people," the longtime fan explained. "I go to the games because they have the determination, character and dedication and they're just good kids."

"I admire them," he added. "And I'm just for the whole school system. The teachers must be wonderful people to turn out the youngsters they've turned out. And these kids get a lot of their character from their parents too."

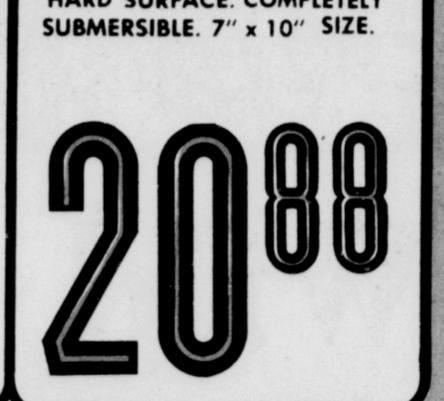

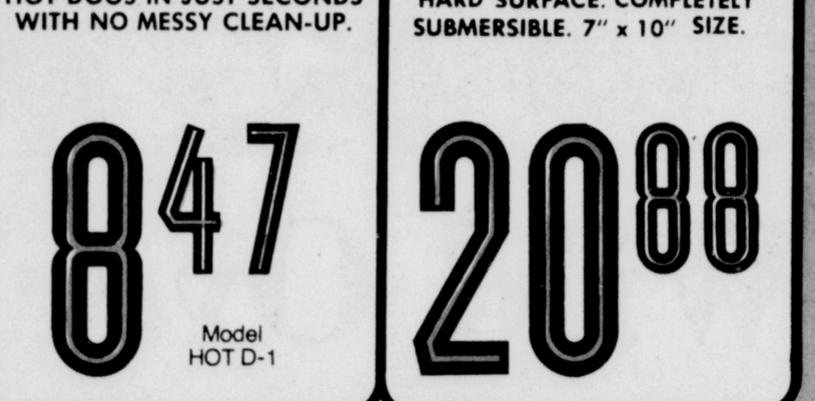

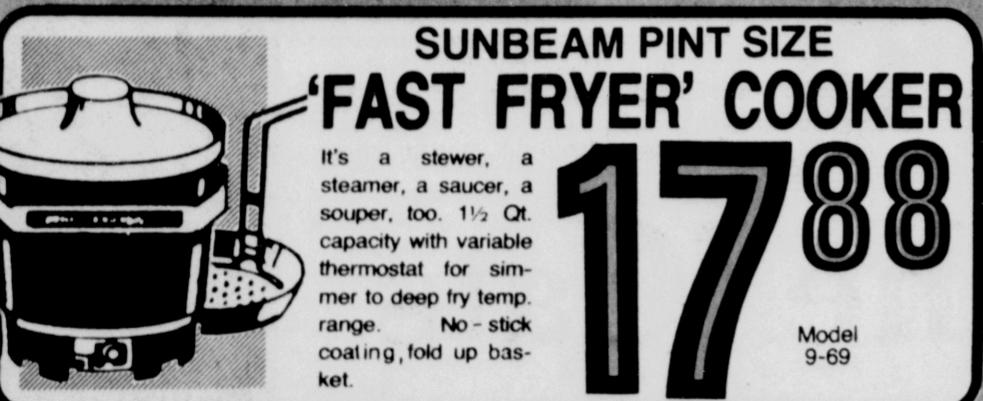

"Just as I am," he continued. "I injured my back last week and the doctor had to put me in bed for five days. I said, 'Doctor, are you aware that Plano's playing a football game this Saturday? What will I tell my son?'

"Then the doctor said, 'If your son is who I think he is, he'll understand,'" she continued. "I said, 'That may be true, but I would be in more muscle spasms if I were laying at home than if I were not at that game!'

"In spite of her protests, Mrs. Haynes still received strict orders from the doctor to stay at home. When she discovered the doctor was planning to fly to Lubbock

Randy Edwards, president of the Student Senate at Plano Senior High School, and senior class president Jennifer Weston accepted a certificate of friendship Saturday from school officers of Odessa Permian High School. The presentation was made prior to the AAAA semifinal football match in Lubbock that saw the Plano Wildcats win 3-0 over the "friendly" Odessa Panthers. Odessa, considered the home team for the game, continued its tradition of extending friendship to its opponents during its home games. (Staff photo).

they would march over to Lincoln Center to read poetry and prose, listen to music and raise money for the children.

O'Gorman, who founded the school 11 years ago, calls it a "liberation camp."

"It's free, it's for the poor, for the deprived," O'Gorman said. "The youngest at the school is a year and a half (old), the oldest is four and a half."

"It's a warm place in an environment that can be tough and brutal."

The school provides two meals along with medical and psychological care. Dr. Mead is an honorary board member of the Children's Storefront.

The doorbell rang. More visitors were arriving, including poets Allen Ginsberg and Richard Eberhart and former presidential candidate Eugene McCarthy, a leader of the anti-Vietnam war movement.

"The reason I've run for president," quipped McCarthy, "was to get my poems published. Of course, I wanted to open up the political process."

"What am I doing these days?" he said, echoing to a reporter's question. "Writing a bit of poetry, lecturing. I try to stay involved."

McCarthy has published several works of poetry and prose, including "Other Things and the Aardvark" and "The Year of the People."

Presently it was time to walk over to Lincoln Center.

"Yes, I'm optimistic," Dr. Mead said as she walked through the crisp, cold New York air. "There is hope. Hope for the children. If only we adults could learn to not destroy our selves."

Patricia Storck, associate professor of psychology at The University of Texas at Dallas, has been named Master of the School of Human Development (College II).

In her new capacity, the Richardson resident will act as a "crisis center" for those College II undergraduate students who may experience problems, as well as seeing that each student is meeting his or her requirements.

Prior to joining the UT-

Dallas faculty in 1975, Dr. Storck was working on her doctoral degree in life span developmental psychology at Wisconsin State University.

Listed in "Who's Who in American Women," "World's Who Who of Women" and "Personalities of the Southwest," Dr. Storck also has received recognition for her recent publication, "Kindergarten Curriculum Teaching Young Children about Adulthood and Old Age."

'Manon' Offering Of Civic Opera

Dallas Civic Opera presents the colorful love story Manon as its final production this season.

Opening Wednesday, December 14, Jules Massenet's Manon features an all-star cast with Alfredo Kraus singing his most dashing role as Des Grieux.

International sensation and Greek soprano Jeanette Pilou portrays the ravishingly beautiful mademoiselle whose dalliance with a wealthy satyr evolves into a tragedy surrounded by deep love.

American baritone David Holloway portrays Manon's protective cousin Lescaut and Giorgio Tozzi is the disapproving father, Count Des Grieux.

Reynald Giovaninetti, current musical director of the Marseille Opera, will be the guest conductor for Manon. Bliss Hebert, who has staged 160 productions of 75 operas including Manon, will direct this production.

Manon performances are scheduled for Wednesday, December 14 at 8 p.m.; Friday, December 16 at 8 p.m.; and Sunday, December 18 at 2 p.m.

Governor 'Boils' Once Again

By United Press International

As he has been often in the past, Ray Blanton, Tennessee's traveling governor, is in political hot water again for winging off to Jamaica in a state-owned Learjet to relax and promote the state's soybean trade.

Blanton, never one to back down from a fight, says taxpayers must pay the estimated $3,500 cost for operation of the jet. But he insists that he and the friends who accompanied him paid the remaining expenses for the five-day Caribbean jaunt.

"I consider it (use of the jet) one of the perquisites of the office," Blanton says. "If I let the opposition or my detractors dictate to me how

I should use government equipment, they'd have me riding a bicycle back and forth to work and selling newspapers along the way to pay for the inner-tubes."

Almost any trip Blanton takes in the Learjet is of some interest because Blanton frequently criticized his predecessor for using the luxury plane and made a campaign pledge to sell it.

Blanton pursues foreign trade with such vigor that there are Capitol Hill jokes about his "foreign policy." In addition to bringing more than 100 United Nations delegates to Nashville to feast on country ham, attend the Grand Ole Opry and see Tennessee's attractions firsthand, Blanton has participated in trade missions to Europe, the Middle East and the Far East.

The Caribbean trip got off to something of a rocky start, with the Democratic governor's chief spokesman, press secretary Brooks Parker, at first saying Blanton was off on a West Tennessee hunting trip and then, a day later, that he was vacationing in Jamaica.

That prompted State GOP Chairman Tom Beasley and one of the state's most vocal Republican legislators, Sen. Victor Ashe, to call a news conference to say they will push for legislation to prevent Blanton from taking any more Jamaican trips.

Beasley also wanted to know, "Who is he or she the governor stopped to pick up in Memphis?"

Blanton, married and a father of three children, called a news conference upon his return and said he would not "glorify with an answer" Beasley's suggestion that a woman accompanied him on the trip. A passenger list released by his office identified all his companions as male.

Blanton said he left Nashville with his appointments secretary, Ken Lavender; his bodyguard, Lt. David Keck, and the plane's two pilots. It stopped at Memphis on the way to pick up his personal physician, Dr. Jim Shelton, and a member of the State Alcoholic Beverage Commission, Frank Phillips.

Blanton said he took Shelton along because he was overdue for a physical examination and noted that Phillips is a longtime friend.

Phillips is president of a Memphis company that pleaded guilty to two counts of illegally using corporate funds to pay $3,000 in salaries to two aides in Blanton's unsuccessful race for the senate in 1972.

Blanton described the Caribbean swing as a combination pleasure trip and "trade mission" to exporting soybeans to Jamaica.

"Anybody who has ever walked around in a cold hospital wearing one of those drafty, backless wraps arounds the nurses give you can sympathize with Ray's desire to have his personal physician jet to Jamaica with him to give him a physical."

trip was devoted to the "trade mission" and how much to pleasure, or why he decided to have a physical examination in Jamaica instead of, say, Nashville or Memphis.

The Memphis Commercial Appeal, a daily newspaper with broad regional influence, was among the newspapers poking fun at the trip. In a mock endorsement of the Jamaican jaunt, the newspaper said in an editorial:

"Anybody who has ever walked around in a cold hospital wearing one of those drafty, backless wraps arounds the nurses give you can sympathize with Ray's desire to have his personal physician jet to Jamaica with him to give him a physical."

How does an area industrial chemist working full-time pursue a doctoral degree?

How does a college student in Fort Worth benefit from a lecture given at a Dallas university?

Dallas-Fort Worth area educators apparently have done such a good job in answering those questions that scholastically-acclaimed universities nationwide are looking toward the Metroplex to help in solving the same problems.

And meeting these problems daily is The Association for Graduate Education and Research of North Texas (TAGER), a regional instructional television network based at the University of Texas at Dallas.

Some ten area industries, ten colleges and universities and independent school district special education programs in Plano, Richardson, Garland and Irving currently are using TAGER to help out those people seeking education not readily available through normal channels. The Dallas Independent School District is expected to be on-line in 1978.

TAGER operates a closed circuit instructional television network from school to school and school to industry. Each institution is equipped with a studio classroom and viewing room.

Each station also is equipped with "talk back", TAGER's unique feature which allows viewers to pick up a telephone-like receiver and ask questions to the instructor, whether he be teaching from the same room or from a room across town.

According to Gilbert Peters, TAGER president, several other industries and schools have expressed interest in the system.

"TAGER is one of the most promising, most complex systems in the country," he said. "Others have copied the idea—including Stanford University, the Chicago Institution of Technology and the University of Southern California—but not with the sophistication we have here."

Participating educational institutions include Austin College, Bishop College, Dallas Baptist College, Southern Methodist University, Texas Christian University, Texas Wesleyan College, University of Dallas, UT-Arlington, UT-Dallas and the UT Health Science Center.

Industrial participants are Atlantic Richfield Company; Collins Radio; E-Systems, Inc.; Frito-Lay, Inc.; General Dynamics; Mostek Corporation; Texas Instruments, Dallas; Texas Instruments, Sherman; Vought Corporation, and Xerox Corporation.

Homework assignments are submitted and returned

Health Advice Shunned

The Executive Committee of the Texas Area 5 Health Systems Agency has taken a strong stand on newly proposed federal guidelines to control health services.

In a strongly worded resolution, the committee classified the guidelines as "intrusive and disruptive of local and state level health planning efforts".

The committee further supported a similar stand taken by Governor Briscoe who classified the guidelines as arbitrary formulas that could seriously hurt health services in Texas.

In a somewhat unusual move, both Governor Briscoe and Dr. Louis Gibson, president of the local planning body, paid a visit to HEW officials in Washington to personally express their concern.

Biggest store in the world

R. H. Macy & Company in New York City is the world's largest store. It has about 11,000 employees and averages 150,000 customers a day.

In this renowned department store are over 400,000 items. It has a floor space of over 46 acres.

daily via a TAGER courier. A 250-foot microwave antenna tower adjacent to the transmitter control building on the UT-Dallas campus is the heart of the system and allows 13-channel transmission to the Dallas-Fort Worth metroplex.

According to Peters, the association's two-fold purpose is "to provide necessary planning for the development of cooperative education programs and to provide a graduate education resource for industry. TAGER adds to an institution's standard resources and makes better use of scarce faculty resources," he explained.

"Most professors using TAGER have reported very successful results. They seem to try a little harder because there are so many more students tuned in than can be seen in the classroom from which he is instructing," Peters said.

TAGER, chartered in 1965 by seven private colleges and universities, holds more promise for the future. Peters said plans already are in the works for communications satellites, slow scan television, video disc and other delivery systems and their use in education.

TAGER will offer some 100 courses this spring semester in art, biology, business administration, chemistry, classics and classical languages, computer science, graduate computer science, education, engineering, graduate engineering, geoscience, gerontology, history, liberal studies, mathematics, modern languages and literature, philosophy, physics, sociology and statistics.

UT-Dallas students wishing to take a course from another university on the UT-Dallas campus by closed circuit TV should contact TAGER at 231-7211.

Too Many Vitamins Can Cause Poisoning

If one multivitamin a day is good, will two be better? The answer from the Food and Drug Administration is that more than 4,000 cases of vitamin poisonings are reported each year, so you can get too much of a good thing.

"Myths About Vitamins," a pamphlet from the Food and Drug Administration, tells all about the miraculous claims and testimonials for vitamins, everything from boosting a lagging sex life to warding off heart disease.

And it contains a handy guide to the best food sources of vitamins, as well as a chart of the U.S. Recommended Daily Allowances. You can get your free copy by writing the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 562F, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

The myths that vitamin supplements can cure just about anything, and make us happier and healthier, too, have been around so long that they're difficult to distinguish from fact.

For instance, many people will tell you that vitamins provide extra energy. False. Although some of the B vitamins do help in the conversion of food to usable energy, they provide nothing of value in amounts greater than the U.S. Recommended Daily Allowance (U.S.RDA).

Others will go further and tell you that modern farming methods have depleted the soil so that food itself no longer contains adequate nutrients. This is untrue.

More is known today about the nutrient content of food than ever before. And more is done, through modern farm practices, to protect and enrich the soil.

Crop rotation, soil tests, and routine enrichment of soil weren't even known about in the good old days.

Another common myth is that "back to nature" natural vitamins are better than the synthetic kind. Not so. And nature can be expensive, like paying up to $5 for 100 tablets of vitamin C from "pure rose hips," when the same amount of pure ascorbic acid can be bought for under $1.

Actually each vitamin has a particular molecular structure that remains the same whether it's synthesized in the lab or extracted from an animal or plant. The body can't

'Hide-and-Seek Odyssey'

Students at Forman Elementary School were treated recently to a Dallas Children's Theatre presentation of "The Hide-and-Seek Odyssey of Madeline Gimple." The play follows the search of a little orphan girl for her imaginary parents. The search takes her through the polluted society of Litterville. The theatre company has performed the play at elementary schools throughout the Metroplex. (Staff photo by Richard LaGow).

OSHA Will Drop Some Regulations

A cutback in enforcement of OSHA (Occupational Safety and Health Administration) regulations—which cannot be officially dropped for five months—adds confusion to the plight of the small business person and U.S. Congressman Bob Krueger of Texas today volunteered his office as an information clearinghouse for persons seeking clarification of regulations.

Celebrity Dolls

Toy Business Risky

UPI could not recall any instance in which a celebrity whose name was used to market toys had fallen into public disfavor.

Evel Knievel sales, which represented 18 percent of Ideal's $124.8 million volume last year, "were going into a normal decline after four years," Winkler said, "but they took a nosedive after a number of pieces of bad publicity topped off by the final act."

The stuntman's public image had begun to pale this year. A televised jump over a tankful of sharks was rated one of the 10 worst programs of the year, Winkler said. A Knievel movie also flopped and the daredevil generally dropped from the limelight.

Winkler said the company will consider abandoning the Knievel line in February when it evaluates its toy products.

Martin Abrams, president of Mego International, Inc., which markets Cher, Farrah Fawcett-Majors, The Fonz

Other major toy manufacturers contacted by and Muhammad Ali dolls, said: "Evel Knievel toys made in excess of $100 million, but all good things must come to an end and Ideal didn't diversify into other areas."

Abrams, who calls celebrity dolls "the cameos of our culture," has minimized the risks in using real personalities.

"As a hedge against a possible slide in any individual's popularity, Mego's modules are interchangeable," a spokesman for the New York firm said. "The same little body could be a Cher or a Farrah."

Mego also has cut its production time by manufacturing all components of its celebrity dolls. "The biggest gamble is on long lead times," the spokesman said. "You just hope the celebrity is not a flash in the pan."

The phenomenon of "Star Wars" has created a different problem for Cincinnati-based Kenner Products Co., granted the toy license for the film on the basis of its successful $6 Million Man and Bionic Woman lines.

Although Kenner has drastically slashed production time for its "Star Wars" figures, the General Mills' division can't meet Christmas demand and is giving children boxes filled with gift certificates to be redeemed in late January.

Mattel Inc., the world's largest toy manufacturer, still hitches its wagon to the Barbie doll and views the success of its Donny and Marie, Welcome Back Kotter and the Sweat Hogs dolls as a momentary splash.

"Barbie, who will be 19 next year, is not at the mercy of television or other mediums," said Joel Rubinstein, director of marketing and public relations for the Hawthorne, Calif., firm.

"When a firm makes dolls based on well-known personalities, it has no say over what happens to them a la Evel Knievel," Rubinstein said. "We know exactly what Barbie will be doing."

Delcimber had two touchdown receptions against San Antonio Lee in the Indians 19-0 semifinal win last week. He has six TD receptions in the playoffs.

Top offensive linemen include Howard Kern, a three-year starter at guard at 200 lb. and Jeff Cooley, two-year starter at 213 lb.

Defensive standouts are Ted Brack, all-state linebacker candidate at 197 lb., tackle Bruce Miller at 234 lb., end Mark Moss at 158 lb. and secondary player Robert DeRutte at 6-6, 192 lb.

Both teams have good fan support. Plano and Highland Park drew 37,000 at Texas Stadium in the quarterfinals and Port Neches-Groves has drawn 12,000 to 15,000 home fans at each of their playoff games. They had 38,000 attend their quarterfinal game with Houston Kashmere and 34,000 saw their win over San Antonio Lee.

Because of the wide support each team has generated, the state championship is expected to draw in excess of 35,000 at Texas Stadium.

Both teams are experienced in the playoffs. Plano has seen post season play 12 out of the last 14 seasons including five trips to the Class AAAA playoffs as the District 13-AAAAA representative.

Port Neches-Groves has made the playoffs four times in the five seasons that Coach Doug Etheridge has been there. His Indians won the state championship in 1975 over Odessa Permian, 20-10, and reached the semifinals in 1976, losing to San Antonio Churchill. In 1974, the Indians also reached the semifinals but lost to Brazoswood.

Both teams have three state championships. Plano got theirs in Class AA in 1967 and 1965 plus another in Class AAA in 1971. Port Neches-Groves has the 1975 title, plus AAA titles in both 1955 and 1953.

Both teams emerged playoff representatives of nine-team districts. Port Neches-Groves hails from 22-AAAA.

Plano's offense has scored an average of 22.5 points per game in their 14 contests and scored an average of 19 points per game in the playoffs. Plano's defense has allowed 11.5 points per game during the season and 11.0 points per game in the playoffs.

Port Neches-Groves has scored an average of 29 points per game during the season and 23.5 points per game in the playoffs. They have allowed 7.5 points per game during the season and 4.5 points per game in the playoffs.

Both teams are noted for their average team size—neither has large offensive or defensive lines. Plano's biggest starter is 230 lb. Kevin Jennings at offensive tackle. He is also the largest player on the squad.

Tickets are on sale at $3.50 adults and $1.50 student at all Plano secondary schools—Armstrong, Bowman, Haggard, Wilson, Vines, Williams and PSHS—plus Tom Thumb in East Plano and Skaggs Albertson in West Plano.

All tickets at the gate will be $5.

'Cat Wrestlers Top Turner

Coach Taylor Webb's wrestling team at Plano Senior High defeated mat-power Carrollton Turner Thursday night in a District 13-AAAA dual match, 32-24.

"This was a tremendous effort by our kids," Coach Webb said. "Turner is a very tough team and rated in the top five in the state. They have a very strong program and we had never beaten them previously."

"Last year, we had a pretty respectable team and they beat us by 38 points. But this year was different. Our kids went after them from the start and never slowed up."

"Some of our kids were on the squad four years ago when we were in our first season as a wrestling team. Turner beat us then 66-3. Remembering that helped us come out on top this time," added Coach Webb.

"We've come a long way since four years ago when we didn't even have our own mat," he added.

Plano got pin wins in the 185 lb. class by Johnny Wiggins and by John Murray in the 126 lb. class. They proved significant as Turner attempted to rally late in the matches.

Plano also rose to the occasion with a superior decision win in the 105 lb. class by Joe Belmonte and a major decision win in the 138 lb. class by Stuart Moulder.

Grapplers 3rd In Tourney

in the 16-team Lake Highlands Invitational.

Seven wrestlers placed in the two-day affair at Richardson's Lake Highlands High School. None of the seven won first but they received three second places, four third places and one fourth place finish.

Placing second for the Wildcats were Joe Belmonte in the 112 lb. class, Stuart Moulder in the 138 lb. class and Mike Stover in the 145 lb. class.

Finishing third for the 'Cats was Richard Burgess in the 105 lb. class, George Ridpath in the 119 lb. class, Jimmy Rommell in the 155 lb. class and Charlie Meyers in the 167 lb. class.

Wayne Weatherman finished fourth for the Wildcats in the 98 lb. class.

"It's the first time for us to bring home a trophy from a major tournament," said Coach Taylor Webb, Plano's wrestling coach since its
